

“It’s All About the Music” JSO Turns 60

2009

Concerto for ORCHESTRA

October 3

Bela Bartok’s imaginative and grand masterpiece featuring the virtuoso qualities of each section of the orchestra. Also, Solomia Soroka will astound you with her performance of the Sibelius Violin Concerto. And for the season opener Moncayo’s lively and spirited Huapango.

Some of the Parts

November 7

A variation of last season’s “Sum of the Parts,” this concert will focus on our amazing string section for the first half of the program with a journey from the distant to the recent past featuring the music of Handel, Mozart, Grieg and Barber. Winds will join the strings during the second half for Haydn’s ultimate Symphony #104, The London.

2010

Homage

February 13

Great music representing a wide range of musical taste and origin. One musician inspiring another, hardly plagiarism but open tribute. Ravel, Vaughn Williams, and Stravinsky honor Couperin, Pergolesi and Tallis respectively. Composers throughout history not only learned from each other but openly paid tribute to their artistry and influence.

Verdi Requiem

March 20

The master of drama, suspense and passion turns his attention to the spiritual world and combines all those qualities in one of the most inspirational works of all time. Joining the JSO will be the Jackson Chorale and Hillsdale College Choir.

Proms III

April 24

The official celebration of Jackson’s 60-year commitment to excellence in the world of music. Included guests will be Ralph Votapek performing Gershwin’s Concerto in F and Concertmaster Emeritus Phil Mason performing portions of the Brahms Double Concerto with cellist Brian Hodges. Other audience favorites will be included in this entertaining and festive event.

All series concerts held at Jackson Community College’s Potter Center, 2111 Emmons Rd.
